OVER 2,000 YOUNGSTERS HAVE FEATURED IN AL KASS INTERNATIONAL CUP SINCE ITS INCEPTION IN 2012.

WHICH OF THEM WOULD MAKE IT INTO AN ALL-TIME AL KASS 11? ANALYSTS NICK SUMMERBEE (NS) AND CHRIS MAKIN (CM) TRY TO DECIDE...

CM This is a really tough assignment, Nick.

NS Yes it is. When you think of all the amazing footballers we've seen here over the years, it's almost impossible to narrow it down to 11.

CM I know – and there are some fantastic players who won't even get a mention, because I think the only way to approach this task is to only include players who have gone on to make it at the highest level.

So, in goal, we've got two choices – Francis Uzoho, who used to play for Aspire International, and went on to play in the World Cup in 2018 in Russia for Nigeria; or you've got Kokubo, who used to play for Kashiwa Reysol. He played here in three tournaments, and he's just gone to Benfica.

NS I would say Kokubo.

CM So you're going for Kokubo, who's gone to Benfica but not actually played for them; over a goalkeeper who's played in the World Cup.

NS But where is Uzoho playing now? He's on loan for Omonia in Cyprus, whereas I think Kokubo has a big future ahead of him. Also, I think he's the only player to appear in three separate Al Kass tournaments – in 2016, 2017 and 2018 – and he put in several match-winning performances here, so he gets my vote.

CM Moving on to left-back, and I think Leo Pele is the outstanding candidate. He played for the cup-winning Fluminense side here in 2013, and went on to establish himself as a regular in the first team. He's been out on loan recently, but he's got bags of talent.

NS Agreed. And I don't think there's much dispute about the centre-back pairing either. Kimpembe, who played for PSG here in 2013.

CM Yes, I remember him – and he's gone on to play regularly for the first team too. He scored in the Champions League against Man United last season, but then gave a penalty away in the famous return game.

NS That's right. And alongside him it's got to be Dan-Axel Zagadou. Another PSG youth player, he was here in 2014, and is now at Borussia Dortmund.

CM It's interesting that you'd put Zagadou ahead of Eder Militao, who was here with Sao Paulo in 2015 – he was Zidane's first signing on his return to management at Real Madrid, and cost 50 million Euros.

NS True, but he hasn't played much since then, has he? Zagadou gets my vote because he was so impressive in the 2014 PSG side that played here.

CM OK, so moving to right-back, and again we've got a tough choice. Ashraf Hakimi, who played here for Real Madrid in 2014, and is now on loan at Borussia Dortmund. Or, Moussa Wague, who was part of the Aspire International winning team in 2014, and was subsequently signed by Barcelona.

NS Both of them played in the 2018 Russia World Cup too. Hakimi turned out for Morocco, and Wague for Senegal – and he became the youngest African player to ever score in the finals. Having said that, he's not had much game time with Barca, and he's just gone on loan to Nice.

CM True, and Hakimi is doing really well at Dortmund – he's their first choice right back these days, so let's go for him.

Now for the midfield. We've got one for you – Brahim Diaz, who played for your team, Man City, in 2014.

NS Yes, I remember him. Very clever midfielder. He's back in Spain now with Real Madrid.

CM We'll put him on the right side of midfield, and in the middle of the park we've got Adrien Rabiot.

NS What a player. He played for PSG in the first Al Kass tournament back in 2012, and it was obvious then that he had what it takes to go all the way. He's had a couple of dips in his career since then, but seems to be back on track at Juventus now.

CM And on the left of midfield – although he's naturally a central midfielder – is Oscar, who played here for Real Madrid in 2014 and 2015.

NS That's right – he ran that Madrid side. Where is he these days?

CM He's still on Real's books, but he's on loan at Leganes. That just goes to show how difficult it is for young players to make the breakthrough at Madrid. It's been the same story for Hakimi, because they tend to just go out and buy the best players around.

Now, up front on the right, we've got a couple of options. Kingsley Coman, who was with PSG in 2012 – doing really well with Bayern Munich these days. Or Kenedy, who won the tournament with Fluminense in 2013. Chelsea signed him, but he's spent the last few years out on loan.

NS It's got to be Coman. It's not easy to get in that Bayern team, and he's so dangerous when he gets on the ball. And, when you look back over the history of Al Kass, Kingsley Coman is still the one that everyone talks about.

CM ON the left-hand side of attack we've got Mousse Dembele or Akram Afif.

NS Well, when you think about what Aspire is all about, you can't look further than Afif. He was the star of the Asian Cup last year.

CM Even though Dembele's played for Celtic and Lyon?

NS Yes – Afif sums up what the Al Kass tournament is all about.

CM OK - Akram Afif goes in. So the last choice now is for centre forward, and it's between Patrick Cutrone, who played for AC Milan here in 2014 and went on to play for their first team, then signed for Wolves and is now on loan back at Fiorentina. Or Odsonne Edouard, another former PSG player who is now at Celtic scoring a bag full of goals.

NS Edouard – I think he was one of the best strikers we've seen here. You can see how strong PSG have been down the years at Al Kass by the number of their players in this line-up. There are five in the all-time 11.

CM True, but the fact that only one of them – Kimpembe - is still at PSG, shows just how difficult it is to make the step up from youth team to first team at your hometown club.

REIGNING CHAMPIONS RANGERS SNATCH LATE WINNER TO KNOCK UNLUCKY SUWON

Reigning champions Glasgow Rangers grabbed a last-gasp winner to send battling Koreans Suwon Samsung out of contention for the Al Kass International Cup.

Suwon had led in both of their games, but fail to reach the knock-out stage after defeats to Aspire Academy (3-1) and now Rangers (3-2).

The Koreans twice took the lead but after grabbing a 77th minute equalizer they pushed for a winner and it was player of the match Charlie Lindsay who snatched it in the 93rd minute.

Suwon had the better of the early exchanges and Cheolgyu Han outpaced Bobby Dean to latch onto a long ball but Jack McConnell in goal for Rangers pulled off a fine save.

In a game of few chances, Suwon hit the post of the half-hour mark when Jihun Yoon sent in a high cross from the right and as Han tried to connect with his head, the ball deceived him and the keeper before hitting the post.

The opening goal came on 34 minutes when Seongjin Lee, who had just been booked, connected beautifully with a low drive from outside of the box. There was no apparent danger when he received the ball but he easily held off Leyton Dunlop and went past Connor Allan before letting fly to beat McConnell at the near post.

Suwong deserved their half-time lead, having enjoyed 55% possession and had five shots to Rangers' one, but the Scots started the second half much better.

They equalised on 48th minute when Lindsay burst into the box and unselfishly pulled the ball back for skipper Robbie Ure to fire home. Ure has already featured in Rangers' reserve team this season, which is not unusual as the Glasgow club tend to play a lot of their youngsters at a higher group to speed up their development.

Rangers almost added a second when the influential Lindsay held off Jeyi Lee but saw his shot saved. As Rangers pushed for a second, Scottish youth international Dire Mebude – whose elder brother Dapo is one of the best young talents at the club, fired a powerful shot that was saved with the ball then just deceiving Ure.

Suwong took the lead again on 65 minutes with a rather fortuitous goal. Han had a great chance to score but Kelsey Ewen lunged to block his effort, only for Mohsen Al Sharshani to point to the spot. Sangmin Lee took the spot kick but tried a Penanka which lacked the height and McConnell really should have saved it.

Rangers levelled when Harkness sent a harmless high ball into the box and the keeper, under no pressure, opted to punch but made a mess of it and Icelandic youngster Johannes Bjarnason headed into an empty net, despite the efforts of Jongseok Yu to reach it.

Substitute Francis Jacobs, who only linked up with the club five days earlier after joining on loan from their American partner club Orange County, almost found Mebude with a wonderful chip as he displayed the ability that saw him become the youngest professional footballer in US history.

Rangers finished strongly with Ure seeing a powerful shot saved and Jacobs then setting up Mebude who fired into the side netting.

Hyunjin almost paid the price for his tendency to punch when he again opted not to catch and Lindsay almost caught him out with a lob that the keeper scrambled back to catch. But Lindsay made no mistake when gifted a 93rd minute tap-in after Ure's attempted pass ricocheted into his path.

PLAYER OF THE MATCH

Charlie Lindsay

“We’re looking ahead to the next game now and we know what we’re going to do. We have various team meetings and they’re also player led. There’s a lot of responsibility put on our shoulders. I think it will make us better players going forward and develop us for the future. Hopefully we’ll come out as champions again this year.”

THE EXPERTS SAY...

RHODRI WILLIAMS, PRODUCER AND PRESENTER OF ENGLISH PROGRAMS OF AL KASS SPORTS CHANNELS

“It was a fantastic game. The first half was a shock for Rangers. They’re the defending champions, and it was their first game. I was a bit worried cause Suwon Samsung have learned so much from their first game when they lost to Aspire Academy and they had something to prove.”

“But we heard from Charlie Lindsay post-match, and he was so honest about how they had a calm discussion (amongst themselves) at half time and, between them(selves), they discussed what needed to change. That shows a tremendous amount of maturity at this level.”

“They started the second half well and were putting on all the pressure, then they had that penalty against them, which was tough luck. But then they showed their grit and determination. (Then) towards the end of the match, they got real hard mental strength.”

“For those last five minutes, they put so much pressure on Suwon Samsung, and you felt that they would break. You think they’ll hang on and maybe it will be a 2-2 draw, but then Charlie Lindsay – what a player and what a goal, and it sets them off now on a nice journey.”

“I feel sorry for Suwon Samsung, they were definitely improved from last year. But, well done Rangers and it’s good to see the defending champions get off to a positive start. Unfortunately, Suwon Samsung will not progress into the quarter-finals probably because they lost two matches now.”

SUWON SAMSUNG TEAM MANAGER

Chang Young Hong

I'm proud of the players. I'm surprised at the loss and I wish we could have progressed in the tournament. It's a shame. Going into the first game, the players were affected by jetlag due to the massive time difference. But the players settled and recovered. They got used to this environment where there's a lot of pressure on and they're facing good teams. This is development football and it's important that we're giving these young players the experience.

HEAD COACH FC RANGERS

Brian Gilmour

Overall it was a good performance. At the end of the first half a few of the players were a little disappointed in themselves and maybe hadn't found their rhythm during the game. We had a calm, collected discussion before the second half, and we reminded ourselves of what we wanted to achieve out of the game. We set ourselves that challenge and went into the second half with a better performance. We're very pleased with the result!

The Al Kass International Cup is a great learning experience for these young players. We understand they're young and they may make mistakes, and there's loads of learning that can come out of that.

HEAR IT FROM THE FANS

GO SUWON!

I think Suwon is having a good game (so far). I didn't catch their first match in the tournament but we're here today to support the players”, said Yoon Taeyong, a long-time supporter of the team and University of Suwon alumnus.

CHAIRMAN OF THE LOYAL AND BLUE - RANGERS SUPPORT CLUB

Chris Douglas: The team's doing really well. As last year's champions, we obviously came here with high expectations from the team that's come this year. We're here to get behind them. We did lose a game in the group stage last year so even if we lose this one, we'll still be confident of getting to the knock-out phase.

FAN OF FC RANGERS AND A DOHA RESIDENT FOR THE PAST 18 YEARS!

Stuart Porter: It's a younger team (under 16) than last year and yet we're matching ourselves to the Korean team. There are a couple of guys shining through. It's great that these younger ones are getting the experience here at Aspire and some of the players who played in the Al Kass Cup last year have gone on to play for bigger teams like Chelsea so good things come out of this tournament.

Look out for the FC Rangers Support Club at our next game against Aspire Academy on Monday – we'll even be bringing our drums and our songs - you'll hear us!

Ali Hassan: I'm here to show my support for FC Rangers. They are a really good team and tonight they are playing in a tight and challenging contest and putting on a great performance. Wish them all the luck to go far in the cup.

KASHIWA REYSOL PULL OFF A STUNNING VICTORY OVER BARCELONA

FC Barcelona failed to get off to a winning start on their return to the Al Kass International Cup as they came up against determined Japanese outfit Kashiwa Reysol.

Former runners-up Kashiwa, beaten 3-0 by Paris St Germain in their opener, were ahead after just 45 seconds as Barca suffered a nightmare start with goalkeeper Alejandro Pinazo putting through his own net.

Receiving a back-pass, he went to clear the ball upfield only to slice the ball and he looked on with embarrassment as it looped back over his head and into the net.

After that, it was all Barcelona and Jan Coca, whose twin brother Jordi was also in the Barca line-up, went down under a challenge from keeper Takuni Itoh outside of the box but Referee Saoud Al Qathani waved play on.

Had a free-kick been given, Itoh could well have seen red as he was the last man but the Japanese side were relieved that nothing was given.

Although dominating possession, Barca were not creating many chances but Antonio Comino – better known simply as Toni - did test the keeper with a long-range effort.

Minutes later, Ryoga Tanaka went close with a free-kick for Kashiwa but it came as no surprise when Aleix Garrido equalised with a well-taken goal on 32 minutes. He sent Jordi away down the right and the ball was pulled back perfectly for Garrido to fire home.

Jordi almost went from provider to scorer minutes later with a low driver that Itoh got his hands to and the ball bobbled towards goal only to go out for a corner. From the resulting flag-kick Marc Jurado got a header on target but the keeper had it covered.

Jan Coca almost put the Spaniards ahead just before half-time but his effort was comfortably saved by Itoh. There was still time for Toni to go close before the break but he didn't do enough to worry the keeper and the sides remained level.

Barca started the second half just as the ended the opening period, and Toni crashed a volley against the post on 49 minutes.

Ryunosuke Hanahatsu saw an attempted clearance hit his own bar before bouncing onto the line before going clear.

The skillful Jan Coca was causing Kashiwa all kinds of problems and Toru Nishimura threw himself into a challenge to deny the Spaniard and he almost put through his own goal.

Kashiwa had a great chance on 70 minutes when substitute Shoma Kurita had too much pace for Gerard Hernandez and went clear but Pinazo threw out his left leg to make a fine save, atoning for his first minute mistake.

At the other end of the pitch substitute, Iker Bravo tried his luck with a spectacular overhead kick that had the keeper beaten but hit the post.

The Spaniards were stunned though when Kashiwa took the lead on 86 minutes. Ota Yamamoto sent in a free-kick and skipper Go Otsuki went down in the box under a reckless challenge by Toni, leaving the referee with no alternative but to point to the spot. Pinazo threw himself to the right to pull off a fine save from Yamamoto, who followed up to score.

It was a stunning win for Kashiwa and leaves Barca needing to defeat Paris St Germain on Monday to stay in the competition.

PLAYER OF THE MATCH

Takumi Itoh

Very tired after the match. At first, we had a good pace going on, but then they started putting pressure on us and earned many chances to score, but our defense was up for it. Eventually, we scored another goal and won the game. As for what's next, we need to focus on why we're here. We will wait to see what happens with FC Barcelona and PSG, but we will certainly be doing our best from this point forward.

THE EXPERTS SAY...

COMMENTATOR - CHRIS MAKIN, AL KASS SPORTS CHANNELS ANALYST:

Everybody in the tournament was surprised by the (winning) goal. It was a wonderful and unexpected game. Kashiwa Reysol played two nights ago as well, so they should be more tired, but they didn't show it (even though) they were under immense pressure for most of the game. They stuck in and showed great character. Now, they have a little bit of a chance, depending on the Barcelona-PSG result. I think PSG might change the team a little bit for that match and Barcelona is (in it) to win it. The pressure is on.

TEAM MANAGER OF KASHIWA REYSOL

Takuya Odagiri

What a great game. How do you think the team did?

FC Barcelona is a very strong team and played a good game. We had a small chance to win and we seized it to gain three points. This was very important.

What happened between the last match and this match?

We made sure to remind ourselves of our goal and what we want out of the tournament and we brought that to the game. You've seen the result.

HEAD COACH OF KASHIWA REYSOL

Shunta Nagai

In the next game, we have to get together as one team and of course do our best!

KASHIWA REYSOL APPRECIATE FAN SUPPORT

The Japanese community came out to show their support for Kashiwa Reysol and their chants and posters seemed to win the hearts of the players. It was a wonderful moment for the fans when the entire team came over for a group photo after a great victory over FC Barcelona.

KASHIWA SUPPORTER AKIYOSHI IKEMURA, WHO'S BEEN FOLLOWING THE TEAM'S PROGRESS OVER THE PAST 4 YEARS, SAID:

We're here to represent the Japanese community in Qatar. We heard that Kashiwa is coming here and we're here (to support them). We've been coming to watch (Al Kass cup) for four years now. Kashiwa is performing very well, and I think they have improved (over the years). Some of them might one day be on the Japanese national team. We hope they go far (in the competition), but this match (in particular) is very important since they lost their last game. We think they can score another goal.

HEAD COACH OF FC BARCELONA

Sergi Mila Herrero

How did you think the game went?

It was a very hard match especially with the mistake at the very beginning of the game. My players did well throughout the match, and they had possession for much of the game and many chances to score. Kashiwa had two chances to score in the second half and they got one. We had many, many chances and scored just one. We have to improve so we bring in the goals in the next match.

How will you approach the next match?

My players are going to recover and they will play the same game they played today.

FC BARCELONA DEVOTEE AJINAS, WHO ENTHUSIASTICALLY TOLD US THAT LIONEL MESSI IS HIS ROLE MODEL, SAID:

Al Kass (international cup) is interesting because some of the young stars here will become (tomorrow's) great footballers. It's a chance to witness upcoming talent for FC Barcelona and so many other teams. This is a good game. The score is 1-1 but we're expecting to win this match and eventually Al Kass cup.
